WHERE RED CROSS RELIEVES REFUGEES

Red Cross supply station in Paris.

This picture is taken at the Gare du Nord, where thousands of refugees arrive daily, in need of food and clothing. The Red Cross is equipped to supply all the needs of the frightened and exhausted refugees. Canteen garments are measured and given out and huge pitchers of hot chocolate, milk and coffee, with bread and cheese are given the war sufferers.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, June 27.—A letter dated June 2nd, received by Mr. and Mrs. Anson Elvin from their son, Walter, states that he is now confined in an American hospital in France recovering from the effects of being gassed. He speaks of the battle in which he was in and states that the Edgerton boys engaged with him held all of the ground they took. He also speaks well of the treatment and care he is receiving at the hospital.

Mrs. Rose McDougall and Mrs. Richard Horton returned yesterday from Stanley, Wis., where they have been to attend the funeral of Earle Attleser, who died while submitting to an operation.

Miss May Fero, who underwent an operation at Madison recently, is reported as recovering nicely.

The dance last evening at Academy hall attracted a great many young people from the surrounding towns and a good time is reported.

Flar poles were erected yesterday at the Congregational church, the Catholic church and on the lawn of the Andrew McIntosh residence.

At a meeting of the boys of the One A. Loyalty club, held Tuesday evening, it was decided to abandon their plan to hold a picnic at Rice Lake.

The next draft, what money they had in their treasury was turned over to the Red Cross and the Woman's Relief Corps.

All flags in the city are hung at half mast as a mark of respect for Ralph Amundson, who was killed in France in battle.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Earle returned Tuesday evening from Rice Lake, where they have made an extended visit at the Earle farm.

Mrs. Frank McIntosh of Viroqua is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Farman.

Mrs. P. C. Brown and daughter, Bernice, and Mrs. W. Brown were at Janesville today in attendance at the funeral of the former's sister.

Mrs. W. Dickinson was a Janesville caller today.

Evansville News

Evansville Sunday Evening Movie Question Again in the Courts.

Evansville, June 27.—This morning at ten o'clock in Judge Maxfield's court in Janesville will occur the case against Mr. and Mrs. George Magee for operating Sunday evening movies in their opera house in Evansville.

The case was begun here in the winter before Justice of the Peace Spencer Pullen, with the verdict against Mr. and Mrs. Magee and was immediately appealed by them to the next higher court. This appealed case is being thrashed out today and it is a jury trial. The district attorney represents the plaintiffs and T. S. Nolan the defendants.

War Savings Stamp Campaign.

The different committees are canvassing the city thoroughly in the interest of war savings stamps. Many of the stamps are being bought at the banks and at the post office so that no balanced account has been made as yet. It is to be hoped that this city will easily reach its quota for in all calls from the government, Evansville has proved its loyalty.

Dr. Lusk of Mosinee, Wis., the father of Miss Grace Lusk, spent Monday in Evansville, leaving in the evening for Stoughton to visit a son and where he has business interests.

Mrs. A. J. Brown and son, Walter, were the recent guest of Mrs. Walter Gollmer.

Mrs. Ray Carpenter entertained the members of the Larkin club at her home on East Main street yesterday afternoon. It proved to be a very delightful shower for Miss Ida Heron.

Clayton Hubbard and son of Chicago are guests of Lloyd Hubbard and other relatives.

Mrs. and Mrs. George Magee are business visitors in Janesville today.

Walter Gollmer attended the Wallace-Hagenbeck show in Ellet Tuesday and was a guest of his brother, Fred Gollmer.

Miss Emma Griswold, who has been spending some time in Minneapolis, is the guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Chapin.

Mrs. Crouch of Racine recently visited her sister, Mrs. George Magee.

This afternoon the young people of the Baptist church will hold a picnic at Leonard park in honor of Miss Ida Heron, whose marriage to Frank Wilder occurs Saturday evening. It will be in the nature of a shower for Miss Heron.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnum and son, Roland, motored to Madison on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rossman and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lutschmeyer and daughter, Violet, were entertained at the Sidney Slater home Tuesday afternoon.

WHERE AUSTRIAN LEADERS ARE STAKING ALL ON DRIVE
TO MAKE SHOWING AND QUIET TROUBLE IN MONARCHY

Battle line, showing where Austrians are striking.

Military experts believe that the offensive of the Austrian troops, now under way, is the final effort of Austria to make a noticeable showing in the war in an effort to repay the people at home for their sacrifices and suffering. Reports from Austria indicate that the people at home have tired of the war and internal trouble is breaking out all over the empire. Failure to gain ground or capture any strategic points in this drive will result in the dual monarchy dropping out of active participation in the war, it is believed. Figure 1 indicates where Austrians have struck a hard blow on the Asiago plateau in an attempt to go through the Stagna, down the Brent river to the plains. Heavy fighting has been reported in the Mount Grappa region, one of the strong natural fortresses held by the Italian forces. Rome officials state that Austrian troops crossed the Piave river but were driven back.

THE LIES OF THE FIELD.
It is about time that Rock county authorities, and particularly the Janesville police, gathered in a few of these "lies of the field" that neither work or spin, but which, following the biblical teachings, are sown in ruin and fine linen and spend other people's money.

There is an order for a round-up of the habitual loafers of every community to either "work or fight." Look over the fighting lists in Janesville and you will find the young men are going by the scores. Look over the loafers' list and you will find that it has not diminished since a few cases where the law has exerted its influence. Every red-blooded American is either fighting or working. There are not existing as parasites upon the community.

In view of this order having been issued for weeks past it is not "these loafers" to announce that warrants have been sworn out several days ago for some well-known loafers and that they have not been brought into court. Why not? The plan that they could not be found is absolutely absurd, for one man for whom a warrant has been issued has been around town every day, knows it is out and waits its service.

What political pull what hold upon the authorities or why is not the war being served and the case settled either in or out of court? The public may become interested in this question before long. There may be some authority higher than mere civic authority called in to the solving of this problem for these are war days and you can not do with Uncle Sam and his orders. When a community really becomes aroused look out for it, and the whole city is just seething on this war question.

Our Janesville boys are being killed over there by German shells and bullets hardly a home but has a son or brother killed. Not a day goes by but someone in the community is wounded, or given his life for us at home. Then we turn and see the loafers. The cigar store habitues, the pool room chaps, the saloon loafers. Then we read of crying need for labor and we wonder, "Work or Fight?" Why the order. Why not enforce it? Why not live up to the law and not evade it? Some of you make these men who won't fight, who had behind petticoats, or claimed dependences or were over age for actual draft, but strong and sturdy enough for manual labor, either fight or work. Let's and this faces once and for all. Let the federal authorities step in, and let the slacker and those that permitted it.

Solomon in all his glory was not allowed like these "Lies of the Field" that neither work nor spin and yet wear rich garments and discuss learnedly on war and the possible outcome. Being other by the clever manipulations of their brain and hand is much more than the eye or off their words or indignant parental largesse.

NEEDS OF COMMUNITY.

The newly organized "Chamber of Commerce" has worked out a wonderful solution of what Janesville citizens, business, professional, working men and others who are members, really want in the way of civic improvement. Of course the "Chamber of Commerce" can not accomplish all these demands, but they can formulate them and present them to the city council, for their consideration and as a result something is going to be done. If it does nothing else such a list would be most acceptable to city planners as our new council must be.

Speaking of the council it is not out of place to state that the members of this newly created form of government have taken hold of civic matters in a manner that is most pleasing. The Gazette still believes in the consolidated form of government, and even the will of the majority of the people can not change this law, but the majority ruled and we have the council form again, but thank fortune the new council. Perhaps the antagonism to the system was due largely to the work of the council members of six years ago. They had a new roster of men control affairs with only the best of the old regime back in power.

It was due to Alderman Duffin years ago the old "Star Chambered" session of the council was abolished and today he and others stand just as firmly for a "square deal for the public" as he did at that time. There are no important matters to be thrust out in committee meetings and then presented to the council, but these men who are doing the work are giving their own time and brains to the work and not being paid for it, consequently they are vitally interested in the final results.

That they will take up and consider the suggestions formulated by the members of the "Chamber of Commerce" without saving. They will work in the interests of the majority of the citizens, which majority they represent, and what is best and good for the city's betterment the public can rest assured will be handled in the most expeditious manner possible.

THE PLAVE.
For generations Austria will have reason to remember the Plave as did their ancestors the arms of Winklerman in the days of the battles against the Swiss. There is death and desolation in many an Austrian home tonight and the men and boys who will never return, but whose bodies lie in the fields about the slaughter pens the Italians dig for them, a monument for the world to view of the lust of kings and emperors.

The Plave is the first real turning point in the war against Italy. A war which Austria was loathe to press. A battle which the German emperor demanded and into which only the blue-blooded Austrians or German sympathizers were sent. The cream of the German and Austrian armies. The Slaves and other peoples of the dual kingdom, among whom the spirit of unrest is spreading, whose people are starving at home, they dared not trust, so the loss of two hundred thousand or more Austrians means the real backbone of the Austrian army.

Germany may send some of its older reservists into Austria to help put down the food riots, but it can not spare many. These reservists are useless on the west front where our boys and Uncle Sam's country are entering into the war, but can be used to terrorize and shoot down the innocent and starving women and children of Austria. They have sent other detachments into Russia and Rumania, but Austria is now to feel the iron heel and the Plave will be remembered as long as Austrian history is taught.

The people who forget to pay their subscription to their home newspaper, which is the most active force working for the home town, are usually the ones who kick the hardest because the home town doesn't go ahead.

Now the government is to forbid heels of women's shoes from being over an inch high. It will be hard on the dear girls to have to wear shoes intended for walking instead of exhibition purposes.

The summer resort people who announce that they have absolutely no mosquitoes or other insects, are often the same ones that announce that they are thoroughly screened throughout.

Our old friend Dusty Rhodes feels he is rendering quite a patriotic service in being willing to ride on the street car and he isn't kicking on the three cents a mile fare either.

The Germans aren't a bit worried about our prospective great wheat crop, as Kaiser Bill has told them that Partner Gott has promised to starve out the pig Americans.

The people who used to laugh at the woman who got blown up kindling the fire with kerosene, are often the same ones who smoke in garages.

The German reserves continue to kindly kill themselves or so there won't be so many of them for our boys to face when they go ahead.

Some of the philosophical faddists persist that all moral ideas are unreal, and they certainly prove it as far as their own ideas go.

King George of England is wearing a $14 suit this summer, but you can't see it displayed. Not a day goes by but someone in the community is wounded, or given his life for us at home. Then we turn and see the loafers. The cigar store habitues, the pool room chaps, the saloon loafers. Then we read of crying need for labor and we wonder, "Work or Fight?" Why the order. Why not enforce it? Why not live up to the law and not evade it? Some of you make these men who won't fight, who had behind petticoats, or claimed dependences or were over age for actual draft, but strong and sturdy enough for manual labor, either fight or work. Let's and this faces once and for all. Let the federal authorities step in, and let the slacker and those that permitted it.

Just Folks

LIFE.

Wonder why we come to earth,
Why the mystery of birth,
Why the days of living breath,
And the mystery of death?
It is not for gold or fame,
Not alone for toll or game,
And sometimes it seems to me
That this trip through life must be Ordered so that we may know
One another here below.

Life's a get-acquainted spell,
A chance to know your brothers well.
In a round of days and years
Filled with laughter gay and tears
And of struggling toward a goal,
As a trial for the soul,
Here we come to learn of men;
Here we come to seem them when
They are at their best and worst.
Angels must be humans first.

Life's a get-acquainted trip
And the world a mighty ship
Plunging on through storm and shine
To some destination fine.
Here we live and strive and grow
So that we may come to know
One another and be friends,
And at last, when living ends,
He has nobly served God's plan
Who has served his fellow man.

Get acquainted with your kind!

VETERAN MARINE'S WOUNDED AT FRONT

Major Frank Evans.

Major Frank Evans, reported wounded in the spectacular fighting of the marines in France, was formerly a New York newspaperman. He served fifteen years with the marines, was discharged and then reinstated. He was in charge of a recruiting office when war was declared and obtained an overseas appointment.

Open both your heart and mind.
Stretch to them a helpful hand.
Know them well and understand.
What it is they seek afar
And you'll find how fine they are.
Do not live your life alone.
Know your neighbor, night and day
Angels grow in mortal clay.

WHO'S WHO in the Daily News

Syracuse, N. Y., June 27.—(Special)—Syracuse University has a Chinaman as an instructor in English, the first Chinaman to teach that language in an American college.

Dr. Lambert.

When Prof. Lawrence Bailey, English instructor, drank a quart of cream a day and thereby qualified for the aviation corps, Dr. Horace A. Eaton, head of the English department, wondered what he would do for another instructor.

The problem was quickly solved, however, when Hinting Wong, Chinese graduate student, volunteered to take Prof. Bailey's place. The latter is now in France.

Prof. Wong speaks the language fluently and without accent, his knowledge of the tongue goes back to the Anglo-Saxon period and he can quote Shakespeare by the volume.

Prof. Wong is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and has the added distinction of being the first of his race to be elected the oldest of Greek letter organizations.

He studied in China and Canton and later in Japan. He came to the United States in 1913 and entered Harvard, but left without completing the course. He then mathematically worked in the Albany law school. Both institutions granted him degrees.

DOCTORS' PART IN WINNING THE WAR MAIN TOPIC AT NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Dr. St. Clare Drake at left and Col. Williamson at right.

It was in code. Here, read for yourself.
Eagerly Salvina seized the letter and devoured its contents. Then her face cleared and she laughed.

"You are mistaken, my love," she said. "This is not what you think it. Listen to what it says: 'Slip one, purr two, knit slipped, plain to end, bind off three, turn, plain to end of row, bind off 9, purr back 10, then divide remaining stitches on three needles so that those on the first needle are equal to half the number of the third needle.' This is not code, but knitting directions. Hannah must be taking up the war work."

Said to Be Better Than Starch.
By boiling seaweed with carbonate of soda, and treating the filtered solution with sulphuric acid, a substance is produced that has more viscosity than starch or even gum arabic, and that can be profitably employed in stiffening various textile fabrics.

Cleaning Pearls.
To clean pearls soak them in a hot soup prepared from bran, with a little cream of tartar and alum. As soon as cool enough, rub the pearls between the hands. Repeat application until discoloration disappears. Then rinse in lukewarm water and lay pearls in white paper in a dark place to cool.

WAR STAMPS TOTAL MOUNTS TO $100,000 AS DRIVE NEARS END

City $350,000 Quota Not One-Third Subscribed With Campaign Half Over.

With pledges totalling $80,000 turned in since yesterday noon, the figures in the War Savings Stamp campaign dropped to $100,000 today. The drive in the city is now more than half over but less than one-third of Janesville's quota has been raised.

Campaign workers will make an intensive canvass of the city up to Friday night. In order to reach the $350,000 quota Chairman A. P. Lovejoy stated this morning that the collectors will have to go back and ask more people to take more stamps. A canvass of the city may also be made after Friday.

Reports from the factory committees show the factories are making a 100 per cent response. Chairman A. P. Lovejoy in speaking of the meeting held last night at the opera house, declared that "we have to take our hats off to the factories for their wonderful response."

The necessity of subscribing the limit in this campaign was fully brought out by Chairman Lovejoy in his introductory talk at the meeting last night, at which Lieut. Roberto de Volini of the Italian army spoke. The people of the city are giving liberally but not generously, Chairman Lovejoy explained.

"Already we have heard of other counties going 'over the top,'" said Mr. Lovejoy. "Janesville must not fall in this campaign. We must all save until it hurts. The war can be won if we will it and are willing to pay the price, it and be cheaper to pay the price of victory than of defeat."

A Racy Item.

"A New York dye expert declares that 'American dyes are as fast, class for class, as German dyes.'"

Happy Thought—Write article on speed in dyes. Study the classes, those in the 204 class and so on. Discourage bookmaking and side bets as degrading to a noble sport.

Make Our Own Beauty.

Men and women make their own beauty or ugliness. Bulwer speaks in one of his novels of a man "who was uglier than he had any business to be," and, if we could but read it, every human being carries his life in his face, and is good looking, or the reverse, as that life has been good or evil. On our features the fine chisels of thought and emotion are eternally at work.—Alexander Smith.

"GIRLS OVER HERE" PROVES INTERESTING

Home Talent Play Given at Apollo Theater Last Evening Well Received.

An inspiring play, a group of charming dances, and interesting readings were features of the very successful entertainment, given yesterday afternoon and evening under the direction of Miss Fitzgerald for the benefit of the Belgium Relief Fund.

Surely the fairies might have envied the grace of the little tots, in the merry tripping measures of the fairy dances, which were done by the little folks last evening. The sailors horn pipe was done in true nautical style by Constance Dalton, Ruth Sennett, Dorothy Grubb, Marjorie Beale, Anita and Mildred Esser, Madge Little and Marie Hanuska; and the Shepherdess dance by Beatrice Conley, Kathryn Connors, Marjorie Beale, Anita and Mildred Esser, Margaret Higgins, Janet Riley, and Elizabeth Cokey.

A nursery rhyme dance was given by Margaret Higgins, Beatrice Conley, Kathryn Connors, Janet Riley and Elizabeth Cokey.

The stately measures of the minuet, were executed most gracefully by Ruth Sennett, Dorothy Grubb, Edna Esser, Mildred Esser, Edna Connors, Marie Hanuska, Madge Little and Constance Dalton.

They were clad in old time colonial costume and were miniature copies of distinguished ancestors.

A dancing cake walk given in best negro style, was danced by three couples, Constance Dalton, Ruth Sennett, Madge Little, Dorothy Grubb, Edna Connors and Marie Hanuska, who were dressed effectively for their parts.

The French dolls were Ruth Sennett, Dorothy Grubb, Madge Little and Constance Dalton, while the little girl who recited their woes, and told about the "pain in their saw dust" was Marjorie Beale. A sword dance in Scotch costume was given by Madge Little, which was wonderfully done, and she also gave a graceful little shadow dance which was beautiful.

Hazel Cokey gave two fancy dances in costume, which were lovely in their grace and charm. They were "Russian Dance," and "A Patriotic Dance," and both were received with great favor by the audience. A humorous reading, "A Hair Cut," was given by Edna Connors, and "The Dancing School," by Beatrice Higgins.

"Eyes in Church," was given most acceptably by Mary Broom.

The singing and pantomiming of "When You and I were Young, Maggie," was a complete surprise to older folks of the audience, who were the youngsters. The solo of Donald Flaherty, was given in a strong clear voice while the chorus was sweet and true, when Helen Cushing sang also.

Instrumental accompaniments were given very acceptably for the whole entertainment by Elizabeth Denning.

The one act patriotic play, "The Girls of the Club," was given with snap and vigor, which scored instant success, each character taking her part with special aptitude.

Madge, who was an industrious knitter, was Marie Danahy, who was an ambulance driver, Gertrude Cassidy, Mrs. Davis, a soldier's wife, Betty Gower, Ethel the maid, Bernice Billings, Babe the postman, Kathryn Schaller, Virginia, a Red Cross nurse, Ellen Ewing, and Dolly, decidedly pro-German, Elva Moore. The story had a splendid argument for war time occasions and showed how wide the net was cast everywhere they could to help. Dolly was the slacker, but was finally converted and went to work with a will.

The house was packed to the doors. In spite of other attractions in the city, Miss Fitzgerald, to whose skilled training these young people owe their ability, is to be congratulated on the showing which they made on last evening's program, and Manager Zenias, who is always generous with his theater should receive credit for making the entertainment possible. The Belgium Fund will receive a substantial addition from the evening's proceeds.

To Locate Sunken Vessels.

A means of making use of the electro magnet under water has been devised in Japan, and it promises to be of great assistance in locating sunken vessels, to recover which salvage operations on a big scale are expected after the war.

PRESIDENT WILSON AWARDED MEDAL BY HUMANITARIANS

The humanitarian medal awarded yearly by the Humanitarian cult was recently presented to President Wilson in acknowledgment of his war policy and his other energies in humanity's behalf. The medal was offered President Wilson by a committee from the Humanitarian cult, headed by Misha Appelbaum, its founder, who declared that 181,000 Humanitarians of the country were in accord with the president's war policy and that his message to the pope was the "greatest humanitarian document ever written."

Soldiers at the front are always ready for a little sport, no matter how long they have been in the trenches or how hard they have been working. This photo, right from the front, shows the start of a footrace behind the lines. American runners match their speed against that of their allied comrades. The soldiers strip to light clothing, rope off running lanes and race until called back to the serious business of war.

Forests of Norway.

The total area of Norway is about 124,500 square miles, of which approximately 20,340 square miles are covered by forests. The greater timber tracts lie in the southern and central sections of the country, where the land is less mountainous and the climate more favorable to forest growth.

Searching for Franklin.

Sir John Franklin, the celebrated Arctic explorer, started on his last voyage May 17, 1845. Thirty-nine relief expeditions, public and private, were sent out from England and America in ten years to search for Sir John. By one of these expeditions, sent by Lady Franklin, traces of the missing ship were found and its fate decided.

Rich in Misfortune.

At the end of life a man finds himself rich, not so much by his fortune as by his misfortunes. The Persians had a vase of glass, which when empty was colorless, but when filled with wine flashed forth many rare pictures. Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two country girls between the ages of sixteen and nineteen and we are very good looking. They are in the best age and are expecting to be called any day. They both have cars and are very popular.

(1) Are we too young to marry them before they go to France?

(2) Do you think it advisable to wait until they come back?

(3) We have heard that when the boys cross the water they lose their home and fall in love with the French girls. Is this true?

BLUE AND EYES.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man nineteen years old. Some of the girls in our graduating class at high school are getting up a party and one of the girls has invited me and one of the girls at all. I accepted the invitation because I wanted to go to the picnic. My own girl is angry now and I don't know what to do. I would like to go to the picnic, but I do not want to have my own girl angry at me.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

OVERWEIGHT AND THE HEART

The normal weight of a man 65 inches tall is 155 or 160 pounds. If a man of that height weighs 190 pounds his heart must work harder to pump the blood to the various parts of his body.

Naturally, therefore, the heart suffers from strain in obesity. The heart muscle is not as thick as the fat man's. The heart muscle is like an engine. It is under a constant strain even if it is a perfectly healthy heart muscle.

Some of the girls in our graduating class at high school are getting up a party and one of the girls has invited me and one of the girls at all. I accepted the invitation because I wanted to go to the picnic. My own girl is angry now and I don't know what to do. I would like to go to the picnic, but I do not want to have my own girl angry at me.

GLADYS W.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man nineteen years old. Some of the girls in our graduating class at high school are getting up a party and one of the girls has invited me and one of the girls at all. I accepted the invitation because I wanted to go to the picnic. My own girl is angry now and I don't know what to do. I would like to go to the picnic, but I do not want to have my own girl angry at me.

Then add two tablespoons (melted) in large pie tins (that you will bake the bread in). The tins are already greased.

Then sprinkle just a little flour in bottom of tins pour in the batter in equal parts and let stand from fifteen to twenty minutes and bake one-half hour.

WIFE GOES HOME; MARRIED 15 MINUTES

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 27.—Married at eight o'clock, bride going to her home in Tulsa, Okla.

After leaving the church the couple drove to the hotel where the bridegroom had registered. He left the bride in the lobby with these words: "Now you stay here while I go and pack. Then we'll get out to your mother's and stay a few days."

When he returned to the lobby his search followed. Then he thought of the police, so called in Chief Nichols. The Chief thought a moment.

"Who's speaking," said Billy Bunny. And the reason he hadn't said anything before was because he had been sound asleep.

And then who should come out from behind that funny signpost, but a great roaring bull with two horns and about ten feet long and big red snorting nostrils.

"Don't let us disturb you," which means bother or something like that, said Uncle Lucie, and he honked the horn. The bull was so frightened that he ran away and never stopped till he got home and covered himself with the crazy quilt to his old four-poster bed.

be she's out to her mother's," he told the distracted bridegroom. Ten minutes later they were in each others arms.

"I thought he said: 'I'll pack my grip and you go out to your mother's,'" she explained. "I thought it was funny, but supposed he knew his business—I didn't."

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Something's going to happen. I feel it in the air. But what it is you soon shall know. So hold your breath and stare.

You remember in the last story I told you about Billy Bunny's birthday party and promised to tell you who found the little gold ring in the forest cake. Well, just as the little rabbit said, "I've found it!" Daddy Fox sprang from behind a bush and grabbed the piece of cake right out of the little rabbit's paw. And then he jumped over the Luckymobile and ran off to his den to give it to Billy-bunny or Bushy Tail, his two little sons you know, but which one got it I can't remember, for everybody was so excited that they forgot to ask the naughty old fox before he got away.

"That's too bad," said King Uncle Luck. "I'll have to get you another one," so he said good-bye to everybody and took Billy Bunny down to the 3 and 10 cents store where they bought a lovely gold ring with a big ruby in it. Wasn't that nice?

And then they came back to the woods, but everybody had gone home and there was no more birthday cake anywhere to be seen, not even a little piece of candle.

"Well, what shall we do now?" said the kind old gentleman rabbit, and he poured some lettuce oil into the cabaret and took out his blue polka-dot handkerchief and wiped his ear, and then he dusted off his old wedding stovepipe hat and honked the horn and blew up a cushion upside down to hide a grease spot. And after that he put on his goggles and started off alone and by himself, not so very long, they came to a signpost on which was written:

"Which road shall I take?" "Goodness gracious rabbit," exclaimed the old gentleman rabbit, "what's the matter with my goggles?" and he took them off and looked at the signpost again.

"He says the same old thing," he said with a sigh, and he took off his old wedding stovepipe hat and dusted the top, and after he had put it on his head again he heard a voice saying:

"Take the road that leads to the left. And not the one to the right. For if you don't you will get left. And you won't get home till night."

"Who's speaking," said Billy Bunny. And the reason he hadn't said anything before was because he had been sound asleep.

And then who should come out from behind that funny signpost, but a great roaring bull with two horns and about ten feet long and big red snorting nostrils.

"Don't let us disturb you," which means bother or something like that, said Uncle Lucie, and he honked the horn. The bull was so frightened that he ran away and never stopped till he got home and covered himself with the crazy quilt to his old four-poster bed.

FIGHTING SPIRIT OF THE ITALIANS WINS

LIEUT. ROBERTO DE VIOLINI OF ITALIAN ARMY DECLARES ITALY IS IN WAR TO THE VERY END.

PRAISE FOR AMERICA

Thankful for Aid of U. S.—Other Talks at Myers Theatre Last Evening Most Inspiring—Office Given Big Ovation.

Graphically describing fighting conditions on the Italian battle front and issuing a warning against deadly German propaganda, Lieutenant Roberto de Violini of the Italian army spoke to an enthusiastic audience of seven hundred people at the Myers theatre last evening, drove home a message of courage which will be long remembered by those who heard him and which ought to have a big effect on the raising of Janesville's quota in the war stamp drive.

Lieut. Roberto de Violini

de Violini of the Italian army speaking to an enthusiastic audience of seven hundred people at the Myers theatre last evening, drove home a message of courage which will be long remembered by those who heard him and which ought to have a big effect on the raising of Janesville's quota in the war stamp drive.

Of an almost equal degree of interest was the talk of Father Beccaria, chaplain of Mercy hospital, who with fiery enthusiasm in his love for Italy praised the United States for her desire to uphold the standards of civilization and declared that the day had dawned for a closer relationship of Italy and America. He put his whole heart and soul into his address and won the rapt attention of the audience many times.

It was Italy's night last night. The drama of that fighting little country being in prominent places and the Italian national anthem was played by the Bowers City band as an opening to the program and was sung after Father Beccaria's talk by a mixed quartet composed of the Misses Lake and Sewell and Messrs. Van Pool and Lane. "A German atrocity is going to bring the Stars and Stripes to the ground," declared Willie Nimmer, ten year old boy who spoke just before Lieut. Violini. "We must and will win." He astonished the people with his powerful voice and with his earnestness to see the war won and his plea for the people to purchase savings stamps was an urgent one.

A. P. Lovejoy, chairman of the Rock County War Savings Stamp campaign committee, acted as chairman of the evening and opened the program of speeches with a stirring appeal for purchases of savings stamps. He explained briefly the advantages of these stamps and told of the goal of $35,000 which must be reached in Janesville. He then introduced Father Beccaria who spoke in part as follows:

"I must confess that I am deeply impressed with the solemnity of this great occasion. This meeting to me is not a gathering to hear what our Italian hero has to say but it has a higher and nobler purpose. It is perhaps the beginning of a new era of friendly relations between Italy and the United States. In the past, Italians have not been treated well in this country but this feeling is rapidly disappearing as you people are beginning to realize that Italy is in this war to stick to the end!"

"It has long been the opinion that Italy is a nation of things else than poetry, action and art. We are fond of these and it is the combination of these different traits which is the dynamical force which is inspiring Italy to the sacrifice along the front. Italy broke her allegiance with Austria and Germany because she felt that she could not stand with barbarians, but wanted to help fight for civilization and freedom. We Italians greatly appreciate the help of America—we felt safe after the United States entered the war. With determined vigor let us now pledge ourselves to aid the boys of America, Italy and other allied nations in their task of smashing the barbaric wall which threatens the world! Hurrah for America! Hurrah for Italy! and Hurrah for the Allies!"

By the singing of the Italian anthem by the mixed quartet, Willie Nimmer, the young Assyrian boy took the floor and made an appeal for the purchase of savings stamps tomorrow, June 28th. "You people don't realize what this war really is—you are asked to merely lend your money while our dear boys over there are giving their lives for us. This is the greatest war the United States has ever tackled. We must and will win! Let us all resolve to help as much as possible. This is a free country and it is up to us and God to keep it free."

Patriotism Rampant. The patriotic spirit ran high during the boy's stirring talk and after finishing the handsome young Italian lieutenant seized him and placed him on his shoulders while the audience cheered and applauded. It was the high spot of patriotism of last evening's meeting and was most inspiring.

It was one of those evenings when a flow of patriotism, Lieut. Violini preparing to begin his speech, was given a big ovation. He was applauded for nearly three minutes. "You people are so warm that it is too great for words of thanks," he said, "but I shall not consider it for myself but shall turn it over to those boys fighting over there." He briefly explained that he was one of a few Italian officers sent to this country by the Italian government to explain the situation of that country in detail to the American people. "German propaganda which has proved so disastrous to Italy is going on in this country at a rapid rate," he said, "and you people must be careful lest it infect you the same way as the United German who wears an American flag but who smiles in his heart when the American casualty lists are announced. Germany inculcated wrong ideas into the minds of our people and made many of them believe that our war was a greedy war of annexation. How utterly false! Italy is in the war to a just lust the same as the United States and for the same purpose—to make the world a decent place in which to live. What a lot of mean lies and downright scoundrels those Germans are!"

"You people are asked to loan your government the money necessary to down these barbarians by buying war savings stamps. You must do this. You must do our part and not your part and put forth every drop of energy and give all of your money if necessary to down the Huns. If we are to lose, money will be as dirt in comparison to what we will have sacrificed. Buy these stamps to give your boys a hand in going over the top. Maybe your purchase of a stamp will be just what will save a boy's life by giving him a rifle in the time of need. Can you deny these boys this?"

"There can be no peace until Germany is destroyed. We are going to beat them to earth. The spirit of the Italians which led 3,000 of them with shattered legs and arms to flee from a hospital back to the front last fall is the spirit which is putting the Austrians to flight at the present time."

Indomitable Courage.

He told of the great victory won by the Germans over the Italians last fall by filling them with propaganda and leading them to throw away their guns and then attacking them. "If our boys fighting then with their bare hands could hold the enemy back then it is utterly ridiculous to suppose that the Austrians are going to break our lines now when we are fully equipped. We have received word that the Germans are sending six divisions from the French to the Italian front. We are glad that they are coming for it weakens them on the French front and we will give them a warm reception like we gave the Austrians in April. The strength of will and the moral courage of the Italian people is indomitable. That is why weaponless men could stop the German advance. He described a surprise attack last December in which he took part where 120 Italians took 300 prisoners. He also told of the difficulties of mountain warfare; how the food has to be transported by aerial railway and how the wounded are sent to American Red Cross hospitals in the same manner. His descriptions of the slides were vivid and gave the audience an idea of the perseverance of the Italian people.

Lieutenant de Violini arrived in this city from Chicago yesterday afternoon and was the guest of Father Beccaria. He returned to the city today. He expects to remain in this country for three or four weeks more and then will return to the front. He wears a silver medal for distinguished valor and another for bravery under fire. He is a member of the Sixth Alpine regiment and has been wounded four times, one bullet passing through his nose and right eye. During the course of the Trentino campaign he occupied a mountain peak 16,000 feet high with sixty men, living in caves scarcely large enough to accommodate children.

COLLEGE GIRLS HIRE OUT TO WORK ON REAL FARMS, NOT AS FARMERETTES BUT REGULAR FARM HANDS

Photographs show two college girls making firewood of a tree they have felled, two more acting as "milkmen," below, and another digging up a truck patch.

The Woman's Land Army of America has grown almost in proportion to Uncle Sam's military army during the past year. This summer finds students from almost every girl's school and college in the country claiming membership.

A call was sent to all the colleges and enlistment in the land army was in order. For the most part the girls were eager to join and one week after the closing of the semester found almost half of the girl students working on farms either in the vicinity of their homes or of their colleges. Whether in a spirit of chivalry, encouragement or as a plain fact is not known, but the farmers who have hired the girls say they are the "best help ever."

MULES KICK MEMBERS OF LINER TRYING TO ESCAPE

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS] A Pacific Port, June 27.—Captain S. Kawi, commander of a Japanese liner arriving here from Atlantic waters, told how mules from a torpedoed vessel killed several members of the crew in their frantic efforts to climb aboard rafts and boats. "We were in a convoy of thirteen vessels, from New York for London," Captain Kawi said. "Off the Selby Islands two submarines showed up and sank two British vessels of the convoy, each carrying horses and mules. "Our after gun went into action immediately and one of the submarines was hit by our shells. The others were sunk by a convoying cruiser. "I ordered the boats away and took charge of our power launch. It was like plowing through a sea of horse heads. The horses gave up without much fuss, but the mules swam to the side of the launches and tried to kick and bite their way up to safety. They kicked out tremendous vigor and I saw a number of swimmers' heads broken. "Terrible pandemonium reigned for more than two hours, but most of the men on the torpedoed vessel were saved."

"THE ACCIDENT"

By KATHERINE HOPSON.

It was mere chance and a business engagement which first led Edmund Crane to Thornbridge that summer. It was pleasant surroundings and Anne Van Ransseler that caused him to linger there. Not that Anne consciously augmented his staying. Such an act would have been beneath the dignity of a Van Ransseler.

"There's a limit to the cordiality one may give a perfect stranger who comes without credentials," she had declared to some of her friends when Crane first came to town. Nevertheless, when matters came to a climax a short time before he was to leave, Anne was terribly distressed. She felt that anything she might say to this whole-souled, unassuming man would hurt him vitally, and she didn't want to marry him. He was not at all the sort of man she had always pictured herself as marrying. He was without family backing or social position. But, in spite of this, his virile personality made a strong appeal.

She was surprised at the pang of regret she felt when he could not go to the picnic that had been planned by the Thornbridge younger set next day. He was obliged to be out of town for the day on business, and Anne attended the picnic with her married sister in the latter's car.

The June day was glorious, the air soft and invigorating, the car smooth-running; but Anne's fair face wore a look of discontent. Of what use is it to be pretty and young, with a new auto well draped most becomingly over a fetching hat, when there is no one around to appreciate the effect?

When they reached the picnic grounds, Anne, with forced gaiety, joined the other girls in setting out the picnic dinner, and throughout the day kept up an appearance of merriment.

Shortly before the picnic party was ready to start home, someone drove up in a smart little runabout and Anne saw with a start of surprise it was Edmund Crane.

"Got in on the afternoon train instead of tonight," he explained in his breezy way.

When they were ready to go they found the chauffeur working with the Burke car. At last he turned and said with a look of sheepish concern on his stolid face:

"I'm sorry, but the car is out of commission. I'll have to telephone for a man to come out from town and fix it."

"How long will it take to get it mended?"

He considered. "An hour, most likely."

"And we're late already, and I'm expecting guests this evening," exclaimed Anne's sister, Mrs. Burke. Room was found for her in one of the other cars, while Crane gallantly begged the pleasure of Anne's company.

The different cars started back about the same time, and not until they were about half way home did the little procession become separated. Some slowed up, others put on speed, others turned down different roads, through the soft summer dusk.

"I wonder," said Anne, "if Dawson will get the car mended in time to get it home tonight?"

"No doubt of it."

"You think there wasn't a great deal the matter with it?"

"Not much."

"Something almost funny in his usually open face caught her attention, even in the gathering twilight. And a sudden suspicion leaped into her mind.

"You mean to imply that the accident to the car wasn't real?"

"Something of the sort," he nodded with a shame-faced smile.

"But—Dawson—"

"He was bribed to say it was broken." Then in a pleading tone. "It was my last chance to be with you, Anne. I'm due back at the Chicago office Monday. Won't—won't you reconsider the answer you gave me last night?"

For a few moments there was tense silence. Anne sat with her delicate face averted—conflicting emotions holding her in their grip. Perhaps it was Crane's breathless attention to what she might say that caused him to neglect his driving. Perhaps it was the jagged tree roots that lurked deceitfully in the dusky road. At all events, the car swerved sharply and skidded into the ditch at the side.

Anne, after a moment of dazed shock, found herself on the grassy bank beyond, unhurt. But Crane, at the edge of the ditch, with blood trickling from an ugly cut on his forehead, lay still with closed eyes.

She dragged him over on the bank beside her, chafed his hands, crying and calling him by name. Then she moistened her handkerchief in the nearby brook, and wiped the blood from his forehead. Effete ideals and artificialities of her life slipped away from her, and she was primitive woman fighting for the life of her man.

After what seemed hours, but which afterwards she knew to be only a few minutes, faint color returned to his face and he opened his eyes.

"This—accident—wasn't faked. It was—the real thing," he smiled weakly.

"Hush—you mustn't try to talk." Tender hands stroked his head as it lay in her lap.

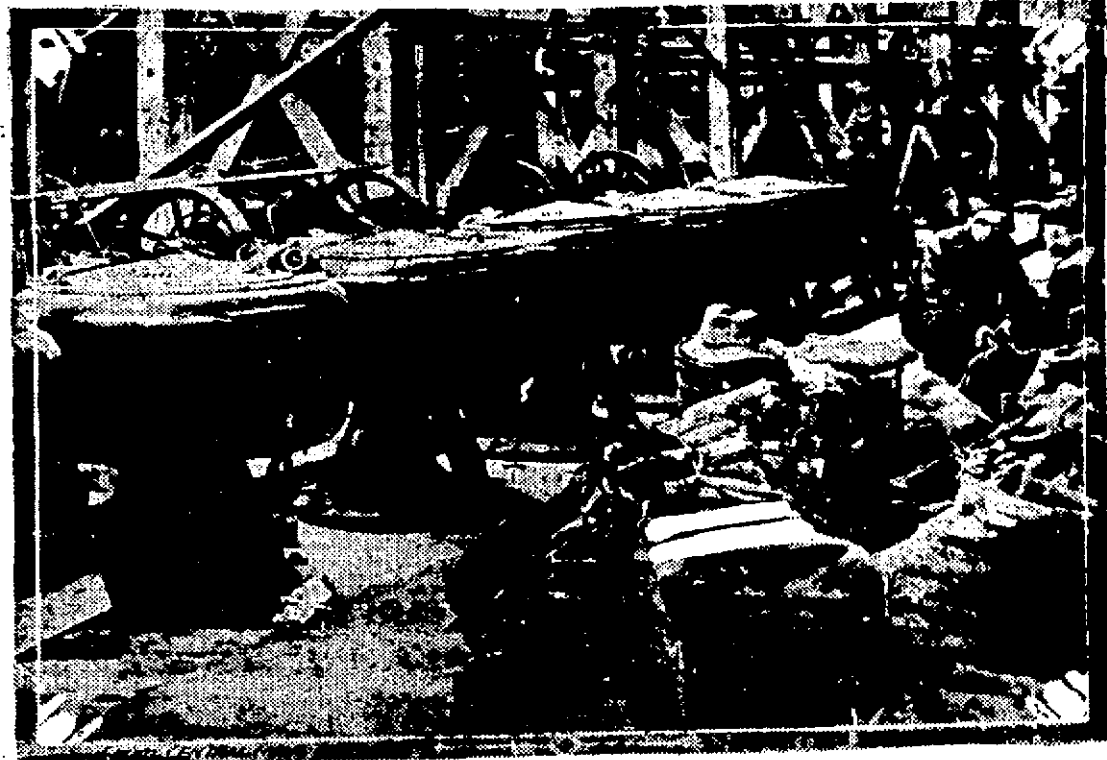

But he persisted. "I don't care if it's broken every bone in my body—for I've waked up—in heaven."

A Pathetic Figure.

When a woman who married a man to reform him lives to be sixty years old without becoming a widow, she is about as pathetic a picture of animated weariness as one ever sees.

BENNY LEONARD HELPS TO WIN THE WAR

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS)

By Jack Voick.
 New York, June 27.—Lightweight champion Benny Leonard has certainly been doing his bit to help win the war and provide Uncle Sam's warriors with some of the things they need to make camp life more attractive.

The popular little champion started out as a boxing instructor in the east, and as such he was highly successful. His work was praised by army officers, and the spirit he injected into the men under his tutelage was made evident when, on one occasion, a boxing tournament at one of the long island entertainments was witnessed by more than 20,000 soldier boys and their officers.

But Leonard's work as an instructor has been but a small part of his "bit" after all, for though he has spent more time at it than at anything else, his exhibition bouts, especially those at the Pacific coast, have been a great boon to the army and the navy as well.

Leonard's activities in California recently netted upward of $50,000 for athletic funds at various camps in the Golden State. In San Francisco Leonard was the magnet who drew a $20,000 gate at one big carnival, and San Francisco was justly proud of that gate for it proved beyond a doubt that the spirit and patriotism of these boxing fans are at fever heat.

Since returning east Leonard has added many hundreds of dollars to the grand total which he has drawn at box office for athletic funds for army camps, and his work in this way alone is more valuable to the army than his services would be on the western front in France.

General Pershing has repeatedly spoken of the value of wholesome athletic amusement for the troops, and the benefit they derive from it cannot be overestimated.

LAST FIGHT GAME
 Yesterday after an exciting contest the Adams school lost a hot battle from the Washington school team. The game was close throughout and was only won by the Washington school in the last few minutes. The battles were for the Washington, Dominican and East for the Adams, Hogan and Lem.

Red Ames, in his sixteenth season in the major leagues, is the hurling vet of the National league. His percentage of victories is higher than that of his club, the Cardinals.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

The Cincinnati club is one which must be given serious consideration by those who are given to prognosticating the result of the 1918 pennant scramble in the National league.

It is better club, fundamentally, than the Chicago Cubs, now leading the league, and, though it has been placed under a handicap this season by the illness or incapacitation of several of its star players, it has held firmly to the third rung of the league ladder for a greater part of the time. It is now tied for that position with the Braves.

Aside from the skill with which Christy Mathewson has handled his pitchers and directed the running his team in general, perhaps the biggest factor in the success of the club, in spite of the rough going it has been forced to endure, is the work of Sherwood Magee. The slugging "Sherry" is pulling a little comeback of his own which, while not as sensational as the one engineered by Larry Doyle and Fred Merkle, has been a life saver for his team.

Last year Magee was judged by George Stallings to have outlived his usefulness as a major leaguer and waivers were asked upon him. Just what it seemed that the veteran slugger must pass out of fast company, the Reds Magee took a sudden brace and has been traveling at a swift clip ever since. This season he has played almost every position on the diamond at once time or another in the absence of illness or injury of the regular incumbents of those positions, and he has got by in great style. His hitting, too, has been a big aid to the Reds.

One of the things that are beginning to receive consideration from officials of the national lawn tennis association is the possibility of securing players from the Pacific coast for the national championship tournament when it is decided at Forest Hill.

It has been suggested that there is the possibility of Maurice E. McLaughlin again getting into action. The appearance of the mighty California Comet would undoubtedly be the signal for the furor of enthusiasm. The big fellow who puts the red blooded punch in lawn tennis is the idol of the courts and the championship at Forest Hill would go with a whizz bang if he is available for the entry list.

It is generally admitted that if McLaughlin can get leave of absence from his post of duty in the United States Navy he will be doing his bit multiplied ten fold by helping along the plans of the administration towards keeping the nation physically fit.

The White Sox's chances for coping the American league bunting this season will soon go glimmering if Owner Comiskey doesn't grab on two new pitchers who can deliver in Boston, June 27.—How necessary is a chauffeur?

 That question is now agitating the automobile circles. The "work or fight" order has thrown them into a state of chaos. There isn't any definite rule as to the chauffeur, but it seems probable that drivers of commercial trucks will be considered productive workers and therefore not affected by the order.

Taxi drivers are a real problem. Jitney bus drivers are probably O. K. Drivers of toy-ride taxis may have to get other jobs.

Stand Back of Our Fighters!
 OUR boys are facing the Hun "over there" so that America may never undergo the horrors inflicted on Belgium and France.
 They must have guns and food and equipment, and ships to transport them across 3,000 miles of submarine-infested seas.
 Are you standing back of the boys who are giving their lives that you may be safe? Are you lending your government part of your earnings that the fighters may not lack for food, clothing and shells?
 Let our fighters know you are with them! Buy Thrift and War Savings Stamps all the time, and induce others to buy them. Lend your government part of your surplus.
 Back up the boys "over there" so that you may never have to flee before the enemy "over here."

STAMP Hundreds of Janesville Patriots Must Take More War Savings Stamps

Only a Few Have Taken to Date. Less Than $125,000.00 Have Been Sold

Papa Joffre and his boys in 1914 at the Marne said "They shall not pass."

Is the civilian population of Janesville going to let the Huns pass, when it comes to putting over her allotted quota of $350,000.00 in War Savings Stamps?

The question seems an absurdity here in loyal, patriotic, prosperous Janesville.

Where are you, you citizens of Janesville, with whom it is possible to take $1000.00, $500.00, $300.00, $200.00, $100.00, in War Savings Stamps and are not doing it?

Where are you?

You have not thought of it seriously enough — God knows it is serious.

It is not for anyone of us to question the advisability of the War Savings Stamp.

The commanding officer of the civilian army of the United States has ordered every city, town and countryside of the United States to advance under the War Savings Stamp Banner.

It is not for any one of us to question that order. It is not for any one of us to step back in the ranks. Every one must take his limit of the load and subscribe.

It may have seemed foolish to the soldiers in the Crimean War at the battle of Balaklava to ride into the mouths of roaring cannon.

If they falter:

"Their's not to make reply,

Their's not to reason why,

Their's but to do or die;
Into the Valley of Death

Rode the Six Hundred.
Then advance.

Nearly all districts of Wisconsin have already subscribed their quota. Where are you Janesville? Where are you who can take $1000.00 of stamps?

Where are you who can take $500.00 of stamps?

Where are you who can take $300.00, $200.00, $100.00 and on down?

If you have not subscribed up to your possibility, do it and do it quickly. Your sister cities, your state, your nation is waiting for you to answer "Yes" to the roll call.

Remember this. You take no chance when you go the limit on War Savings Stamps. They are one of the best and safest investments in the world. They pay four per cent interest compounded quarterly. They can't go below par. You can get back every dollar you put into War Savings Stamps any time you need it. You can turn them in at the Post Office any time for their full value plus interest.

Not more than $1000.00 in War Savings Stamps (cost today $840.00) may be owned by one person, but members of the same family may each own the maximum amount.

Firms and corporations are also counted on to invest in War Savings Stamps up to $1000.00. Join the One Thousand Dollar Club Today.

On June 19, Secretary McAdoo wired the War Savings Stamp Committee as follows:

"Unfortunately the impression is held in some quarters that only the poorer classes and children are expected to save and invest in War Savings Stamps. It is necessary that all classes—men, women and children—rich and poor alike—shall save and eliminate waste and unnecessary expenditures. The Government desires that every man, woman and child in the country shall pledge to save to the utmost of their ability and to invest definite amounts in War Savings Stamps during the remainder of this year.
